About Steppingstone School

Steppingstone School for Gifted Education has served Michigan students since 1981, believing that every student, including the gifted, deserves a satisfying, challenging, and joyful education. Gifted learners are under-served and at risk without differentiated and integrated learning. Incorporating critical thinking and problem solving based on individual abilities among age peers keeps the gifted student engaged, functioning well, and able to maximize his/her potential contributions to self and society.

Committed to addressing the academic, intellectual, physical, social and emotional needs of gifted students, Young-K through Grade-8, students are challenged with the next level of instruction as soon as they reach mastery of subject matter. As a result, our average student studies math two grades above level and reading 2-5 grades above level. This atypically rapid pace with time for special interest studies, unlocks the gifts and the joy often trapped by traditional school structures.

Supplemental coursework is offered in music/performing arts, computer programming, foreign languages, community service, and fencing. In addition to basic skills, Steppingstone provides a home for the Steppingstone MAGnetic Resonance Training (SMART) Center. The only one of its kind, the SMART Center provides training and access to an authentic research laboratory experience with Electron Spin Resonance instrumentation plus data collection and analysis equipment normally available only to graduate students at major universities.

Steppingstone has the only independent, educational program in southeast Michigan that is solely focused on serving the needs of students who have performed in the gifted range according to an individually administered IQ evaluation.

Sincerely,

David Liou
Head of School
